Little Things

Little drops of water,
 Little grains of sand,
 Send me to the car Wash
 Sooner than I planned.

My Diet

Tomorrow I'm starting my diet.
 The ads guarantee that I'll shed
 This weight that's descended upon me,
 And caused my whole body to spread.

I'm going to be faithful in counting
 Each calorie and gram I ingest.
 I've also signed up for aerobics,
 And I'm sure I will do them with zest.

I'm cutting out starches and sugars,
 And rich, fatty foods I adore.
 I'm going to eat only small portions,
 And stop without asking for more.

I always have been optimistic.
 That's why I am sure you'll soon see
 That I am so thin and alluring,
 You won't even recognize me.

They say that success comes with practice.
 And so I have nothing to fear.
 After all, I've had lots of experience.
 I've tried fifty diets this year!

Did You Know?

- Australia has over 10,000 beaches. You could visit a new beach every day for over 27 years.
- It was Nicholas Cage who first advised Johnny Depp to pursue a career in acting, during the mid-1980s.
- The national animal of Scotland is the Unicorn.
- Due to the humid and moist conditions that a sloth lives in, moss and other similar plants will sometimes grow in its hair.
- Viagra, when dissolved in water, can make cut-flowers stay erect for up to a week longer than they usually would.
- Catnip is ten times more effective at repelling mosquitoes than DEET, the main substance used in insect repellents.
- In the early 1900s, lobster was considered the "cockroach of the ocean" and was synonymous with the poor – often eaten regularly by the homeless, slaves, and prisoners. It wasn't until after World War II that lobster became considered a delicacy and a food associated with the aristocratic classes.
- Hares are born with fur and can see whilst rabbits are born 'naked' and blind.
- Approximately 1,000,000 dogs in the U.S. are named as the heirs of their owners' wills.
